

➤ To Those Who Have Left Their Jobs ◀

◆ This brochure contains important information especially for those who have left their jobs. For further details, contact your nearest Hello Work office. Read the back of the “Separation Notice 2” as well.

※ You must bring a document to prove your individual number (i.e. My Number Card) for the application procedures to receive the unemployment benefit.

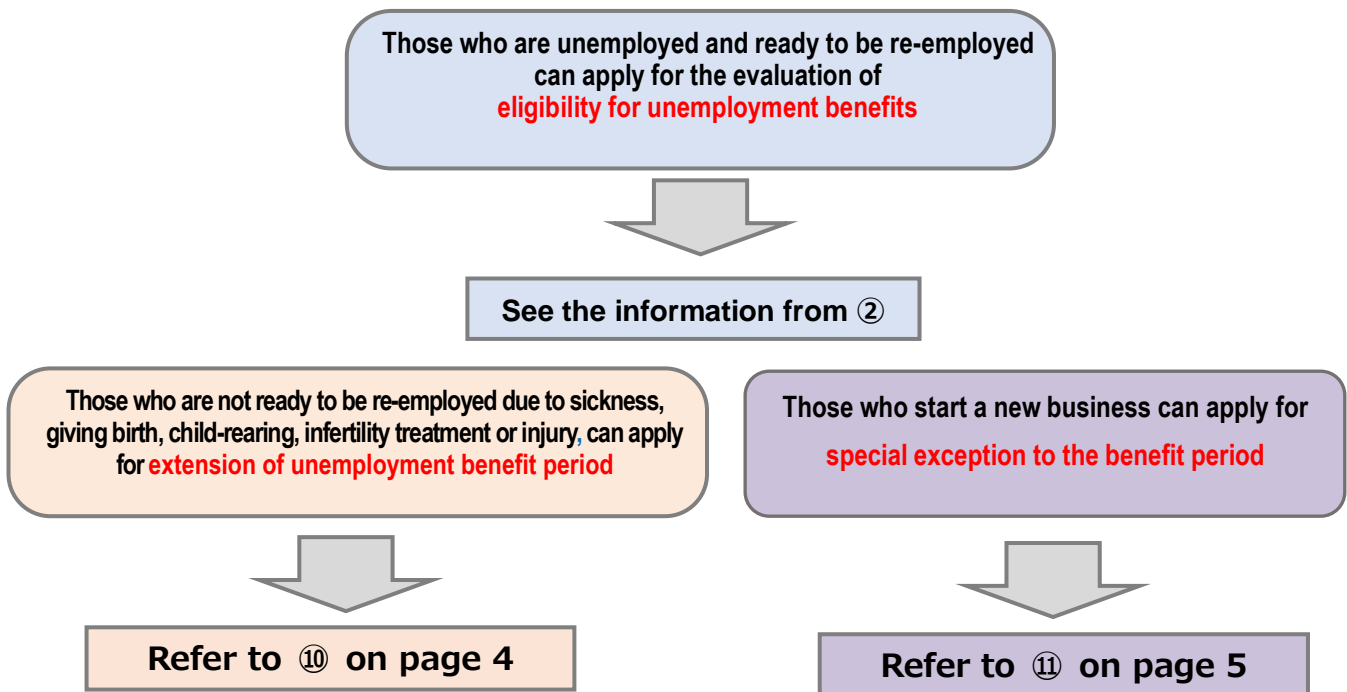

① What is a job seeker’s benefit covered under the employment insurance?

The unemployment insurance offers a “job seeker’s benefit” to support unemployed people to live a stable life and be re-employed as early as possible. The “job seeker’s benefit” consists of the “basic allowance” for the insured, “payment of the job seeker’s benefit for the elderly” for the qualified elderly recipients (※1), and the “special lump sum payment” for the short term employment specially qualified recipients (※2).

The following flowchart explains the details and procedures focusing on most common “basic allowance” (the so-called unemployment benefit).

※1: Those who are aged 65 and older, nonetheless, neither Specially Qualified Insurers nor Daily Labor Insurers.

※2: Seasonal workers, or those who entered and left work seasonally

② Who are considered to have readiness to get a job?

Those who have left their job, and “have a strong will to be re-employed, capable of working (physically & mentally fit and under ordinary living situation), engaged in job seeking activities yet not employed”.

③ Following people do not qualify to receive job seeker's benefit

Job seeker's benefit (basic allowance and others) is designed to support those who seek to be re-employed.

In principle, those who fall under the following conditions do not qualify as the recipient. However, there might be possibilities to receive the benefit depending on your situation. Consult your Hello Work office for details.

- ① Full-time homemaker
- ② Full-time student, including day-time student or equivalent.
- ③ Those engaged in family business thus cannot be employed outside.
- ④ Those who will or have started his/her own business.
(Those who prepare for or consider to start up a business while engaging in job seeking activities may be eligible to receive the benefit.)
- ⑤ Those who have already secured next employment.
- ⑥ Those who wish to work for a short period of time that would not be insured by the employment insurance.
- ⑦ Those operating business under his/her own name
- ⑧ Board member of a company
(Includes those to-be-appointed, and nominal board member)
- ⑨ Those currently employed (includes probation period)
- ⑩ Part-time worker
When the weekly labor hours do not exceed 20 hours, you must report the number of the days you worked and the amount of income. However, you may be eligible to receive the basic allowance for the days you were unemployed.
- ⑪ Those who are repeatedly employed by and leaving the same business establishment and have possibility to be re-employed by the said entity.

④ How to receive the job seeker's benefit

Go to the Hello Work office under the jurisdiction over the place of your residence (see page 10) and follow the application procedures for job seeking assistance (see page 9), etc. to receive the job seeker's benefit.

Things to prepare

1. Separation Notice— 1 → Fill in your name, bank account information, etc. Your individual number must be filled in at the counter of Hello Work Office, referring to the documents mentioned in 3.
2. Separation Notice— 2
3. My Number Card: In the case of absence of My Number Card, both of the followings should be presented at our desk;
 - ① Document to verify your individual number (one of the following) : notification card for the issuance of My Number Card, or resident card (Jyuminhyo) containing the individual number (Certificate of Items Stated in Resident Register, Juminhyo-kisaijikou-shomeisho)
 - ② Certificate to prove your identification: Residence card (Zairyu card) [Photocopy NOT acceptable.]
4. Two recent ID photos, size of 3.0cm (H) x 2.4cm (W), photo stickers, cropped candid snapshots or blurry photos are inappropriate.
5. Savings account passbook of the applicant (Some financial institutions not applicable)
6. Seamen's unemployment insurance and mariner's pocket-ledger for former seamen

◆ A former seaman who desires to be re-employed as a seaman must make a job application at the District Transport Bureau.

⑤ Eligibility criteria for the benefit? [Eligibility for Basic Allowance]

- ◆ The applicant must, in principle, had been insured under the employment insurance for at least 12 months or more in the past two years dating back from the day of the job separation from the previous work. (※1).
- ◆ When the applicant left employment due to employer's bankruptcy or dismissal (that fall under Specific Eligible Claimant), or when a contract of a limited term work was not renewed or for any other unavoidable reasons (that fall under the Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons) (※2) the applicant must have been paying for the premium of the insurance for at least 6 months or more during the past 1 year dating back from the job separation date from the previous work.

※1 The insured period refers to the one during which the applicant had been the recipient of the insurance, which is counted as one month if there are 11 days or more where wage has been paid during the periods divided per month dating back from the day of job separation. As to the person who left job on or after August 1, 2020, if the number of months where the wage was paid for 11 days or more is less than 12, the month where the payment was made based on 80 hours or longer is calculated as one month.

※2 Refer to ⑨ on page 3 for Specific Eligible Claimant and Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons.

《If you have more than two Separation Notices, submit all of them regardless of the employment period》

- ★ Any applicant that desires to receive the special insurance for the Continuously Insured Elderly Person or special lump sum payment must have been insured under the employment insurance for at least 6 months or more during the past 1 year dating back from the job separation date of the previous work.

⑥ Daily allowance [Basic allowance]

The daily amount of allowance that one can receive during an unemployed period is called the "daily amount of the basic allowance".

Basically, it is the total amount of salary received for the last 6 months of employment divided by 180 times 50 to 80%. The lower the salary is, the higher the benefit rate is.

There is a maximum and minimum amount for the daily amount of the basic allowance.

◆ An estimating formula

$$\left(\frac{\text{Total amount of salary received for the last 6 months salary prior to the job separation date}}{180} \right) \times \text{Benefit rate} \times (50\sim 80\% \text{ ※})$$

Daily Wage

= [Basic daily allowance]

※45~80% for those between age 60~64.

⑦ Period of basic allowance payment [Prescribed duration of the benefits]

- ◆ Retirement, end of contract, job separation for personal reasons

(Please finish the application ahead of time)

※ In order to receive basic allowance, it is required to have the verification of unemployment once in every four weeks on the verification day in principle.

★ Benefit period (payment period) of Job Seeker's Benefits for the qualified elderly recipients is one year from the day after the job separation date, benefit period of Special Lump Sum Payment provided to Specially Insured Persons in Short-term Employment is six months from the day after the job separation date.

⑨ Who are considered as Specific Eligible Claimant and Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons?

◆ Who are "Specific Eligible Claimant" and "Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons" ?

A Specific Eligible Claimant is a person who has been obliged to leave employment without time to prepare for other employment due to employer's bankruptcy or lay-off. A Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons is a person, other than the Specific Eligible Claimant, who had to leave the job because employment contract with fixed-term could not be renewed or for other compelling reason. Eligibility is defined for each category.

◆ Eligibility judgment of "Specific Eligible Claimant" and "Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons"

Hello work makes an eligibility judgment of Specific Eligible Claimant or Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons based on the reason of leaving previous job. Determination is made based on the reasons of job separation declared by the employer and the employee who had left the job, by checking the documents to confirm declaration of each side and proceeding affirmation of the fact. After going through all the procedures, finally it is determined carefully by Hello Work.

Please inquire the Hello Work for further information regarding the qualification details of Specific Eligible Claimant or Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons, and their determination criteria. Please also refer to the brochure on the website of Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare for detailed information.

⑩ People who can not immediately be employed... For those who left work at age under 65 【Extension of the Benefit Period】

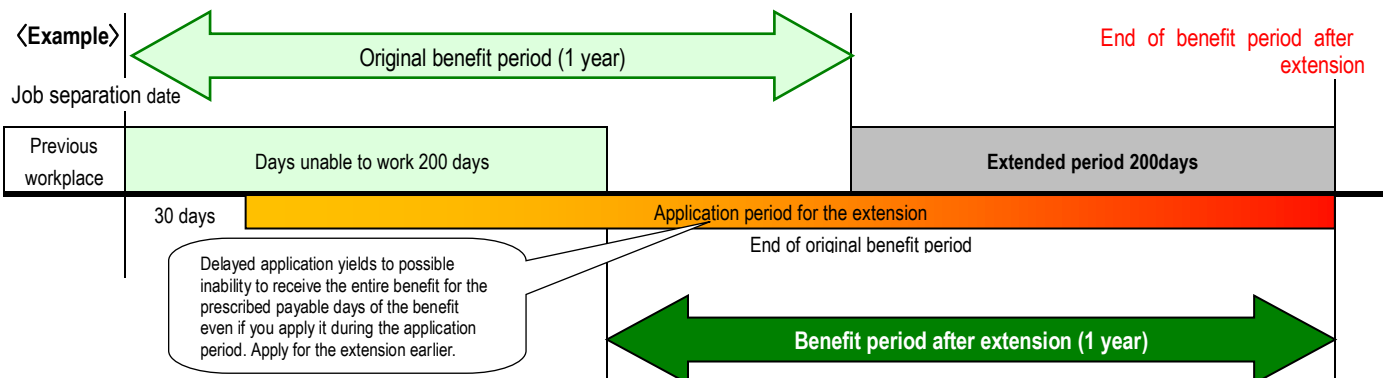

Those who are unable to be employed for more than 30 consecutive days after the job separation date due to any of the reasons below, may extend the one year benefit period.

For those who wish to take Training and Education with benefit, starting date of such Training and Education can be delayed.

- ① People who can not immediately be employed due to illness or injury. (Including those who are receiving accident and sickness benefits with health insurance, compensation for absence from work with injury insurance)
- ② People who cannot be employed because of pregnancy, childbirth, child rearing (under 3 years old), infertility treatment.
- ③ People who cannot work because of taking care of their relatives.
- ④ People who left the job due to retirement such as being age 60 or older, or taking break for a while. (Age requirement differs for seaman)

Application procedure of extending benefit period

Reason of extension	Illness or injury, pregnancy, childbirth, caring relatives, etc.	Retirement at age 60 years or above, etc.)
Application period	As principle, you should apply early as on the day where 30 days have elapsed following the day of job separation, but you may apply until the would-be last day of the benefit period after the extension.	Within 2 months from the following day of the latest job separation date
Extension period	(Original benefit period) 1 year + (Period unable to work) Max. 3 years	(Original benefit period) 1 year + (Desired resting period) Max. 1 year
Documents to be submitted	Application form for extension of benefit period, Separation Notice – 2
	Documents to prove reason of extension
How to submit	Report to office, by post, through proxy (proxy letter required)	Report to office as a general rule
Where to submit	Hello Work office under the jurisdiction over the place of your residence (You will have to report to the same Hello Work office where your eligibility for unemployment benefits was acknowledged.)

- ※₁ The application period is within 4 years counting from the following day of job separation date. However, in the event that the reason of extension has ceased to exist, the extension period will be the sum of the original benefit period (one year) and the period which the applicant was unable to work for.
- ※₂ Delayed application such as the case when it is done close to the end of the benefit period, may yield to inability to receive the entire benefit for the prescribed payable days of the benefit. Please apply for the extension as early as possible.

⑪ People who started a business, etc....【Special exception to the benefit period】

In principle, the period for receiving the basic allowance for employment insurance is within one year from the day after the date of separation from the employment. Effective July 1, 2022 (Reiwa 4), a special exception was newly established that the period during which the person who started the business, etc., is operating the business, etc., shall not be counted as the benefit period for a period of up to three years. This allows the person to receive the basic allowance upon the following job search for reemployment even in the case of temporary or permanent closure of the businesses.

If you start a business that meets all of the following criteria on or after the day following the date of separation from the employment, you may apply for a special exception to the benefit period.

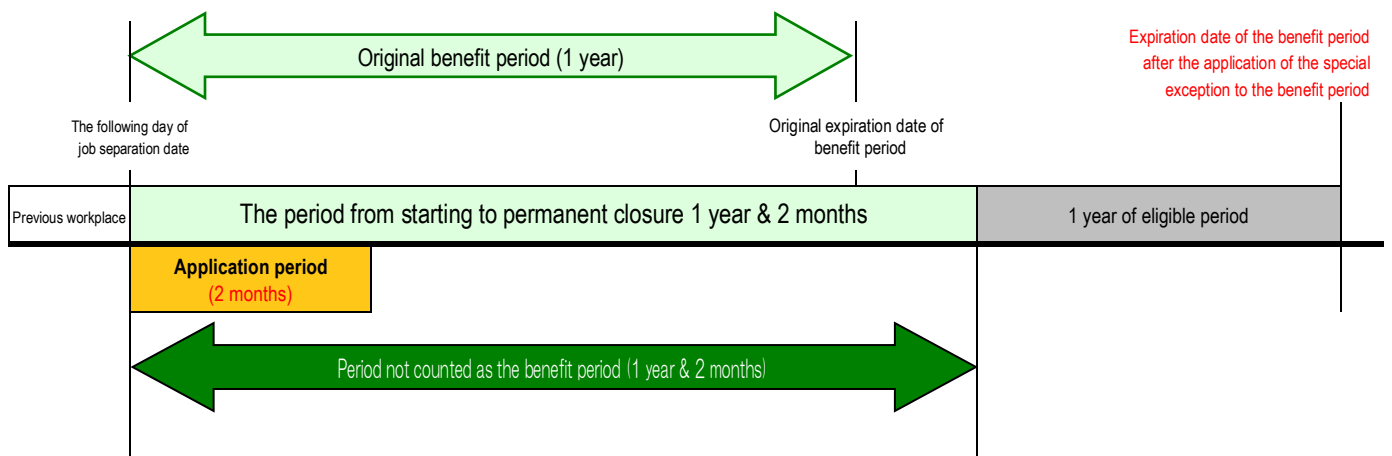

- ① The period of implementation of the business is 30 days or more.
- ② The day on which 30 days has elapsed from the day the applicant started the business or the day he/she started devoting himself/herself to the business or started devoting himself/herself to preparing the business shall be before the last day of the benefit period.
- ③ The applicant has not received any Employment Allowance or Re-employment Allowance whatsoever for the business concerned.
- ④ It is not a business deemed not to enable independence through the business concerned.
 - ※Either of the following cases falls under ④
 - When the applicant becomes an employer of an employment insurance-applicable business by hiring a person who qualifies for employment insurance coverage.
 - When the commencement, the nature, and the existence of the business entity can be confirmed by objective materials such as a certificate of registered matters, a copy of the notification of opening of business, or a business license, etc.
- ⑤ The business was started on or after the day following the date of separation from employment.
 - ※This includes the case where the applicant started the business before the date of job separation and started devoting himself/herself to the business on or after the day following the date of job separation.

- ★ The application form for extension of benefit period is a combined form that allows both an application for extension of the target period for Education and Training Benefit and an application for extension of the Employment Continuation Benefit for Elderlies, however, note that these are not covered by this special exception concerned.

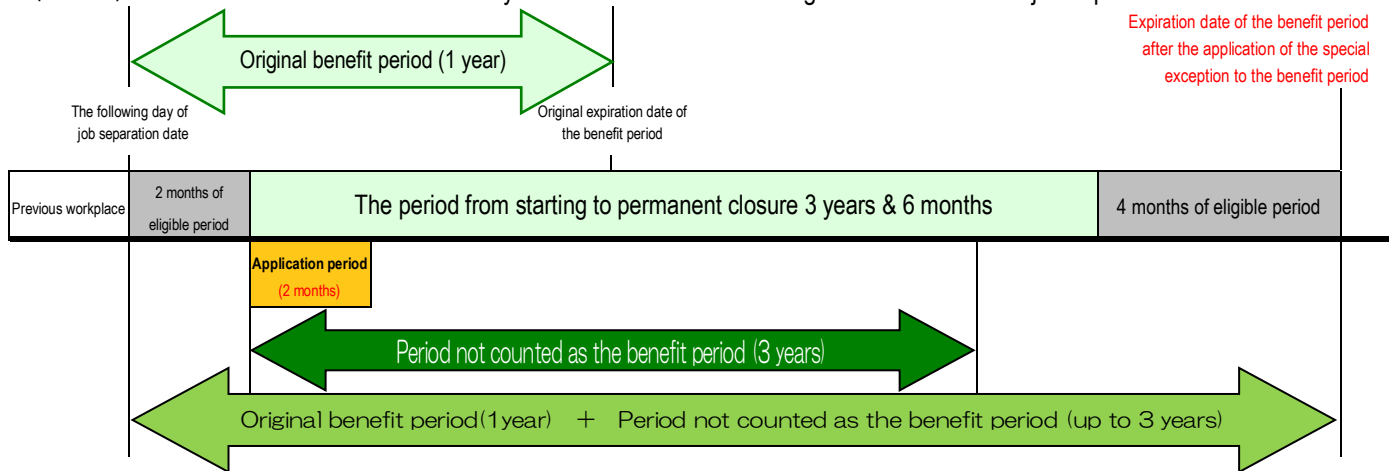

Application procedure for special exception to the benefit period

Recipient	Whoever started, started devoting himself/herself to or started devoting himself/herself to preparing a business on or after the day following the date of separation from employment
Application period	Within 2 months from the day after the day of starting, starting devoting him/herself to or starting devoting him/herself to preparing a business. ※However, if an application for the Employment Allowance or Re-employment Allowance is not granted, it is possible to apply for the special exception to the benefit period by setting the date of application for these allowances as the date of application for the exception, even beyond the aforementioned period.
Target period	(The Original Benefit Period) 1 year + (Period from start-up to temporary or permanent closure of business) Up to 3 years
Document to be submitted	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> ① Application form for extension of benefit period ② Job separation notice-2 (if eligibility has not been determined) or certificate of eligibility for unemployment benefits (if eligibility has been determined) ③ Documents to confirm the fact the business was started & the date the business was started: (1) In the case of starting a business or the applicant started devoting him/herself to the business, e.g., certificate of registered matters, a copy of the notification of commencement of business, business license, etc. (2) When the applicant has started devoting himself/herself to the preparation of the business, e.g., a copy of a loan agreement with a financial institution, a copy of a lease agreement for renting offices, etc.
How to submit	Report to office, by post, through proxy (proxy letter required)
Where to submit	Hello Work branch office with jurisdiction over your place of residence

〈Case 1〉 Permanent closure of a business 1 year & 2 months after starting it on a day after the job separation day

〈Case 2〉 Permanent closure of a business 3 years & 6 months after starting it 2 months after the job separation

⑫ Adjustment for receiving benefit with pension

Old age welfare annuity and severance allowance specially paid to those under age 65 and the basic allowance of employment insurance cannot be received together. When an applicant under age 65 applies for basic allowance, full amount payment of old age welfare annuity and severance allowance will be stopped while such applicant receives basic allowance. Contact the nearest pension office of the Japan Pension Service for details.

⑬ Reduction of the National Health Insurance Premium (Tax)

Those who receive basic allowance as a Specific Eligible Claimant or Specific Unemployed Person with Reasons are entitled to have their national health insurance premium (tax) reduced. (The elderly qualified recipient and the specially qualified recipient are not covered under this measure.) Application must be made to benefit from this reduction. Contact the national health insurance division of the nearest municipal office for details.

⑭ Flow of receiving basic allowance

Beware!

Individuals collecting or attempting to collect unemployment benefits by making false statements or other dishonest conduct are subject to severe penalties. (e.g. failing to report employment or engagement in work, self-employment or preparation for starting a business.)

⑮ Allowance for early re-employment

After application for job seeking service has been made (by submitting Separation Notices) and waiting period has elapsed, if you are engaged in a stable employment ※₁, re-employment allowance is provided. ※₂ You must be acknowledged for unemployment verification till the day before the first working day, and when the remaining number of basic allowance payable days is more than one third (or more than 2/3) of the prescribed duration of benefits, the re-employment allowance that corresponds to the number of days equal to 60% (or 70%) of the remaining payment days multiplied by the daily Basic Allowance will be provided (any amount less than one yen shall be rounded down). In order to be eligible to receive the allowance, certain conditions must be met.

※₁ In the case of being an insured person, or being an employer and hiring a person insured under the employment insurance.

※₂ Re-employment allowance is not applicable to those who is employed by the employer who had provided preliminary job offer prior to the application for job seeking assistance service at Hello Work (before the submission of Separation Notices).

A person who has received re-employment allowance and has been employed for 6 months or more continuously by the new employer, and yet is receiving less than the wage he/she had been receiving before receiving the benefits from employment insurance, is eligible to receive the Employment Promotion Fixation Allowance [shu-gyo sokushin teichaku teate].

In addition, if a worker is employed in a form other than permanent employment (not expected to exceed more than one year) that is not covered by the re-employment allowance, leaving at least one-third of the days of the prescribed benefit period, which also must exceed 45 days, the worker is eligible to receive employment allowance of 30% of the basic daily allowance for each work day (rounded down to the nearest yen). For both allowances, there is an upper limit to the daily basic allowance amount depending on the age of the worker.

During the first month after expiration of the waiting period, those who were under the benefit payment restriction due to the reason of job separation will be eligible for re-employment or employment allowance only when such re-employment is achieved through referral by Hello Work office or employment placement business providers.

“The Outfit Allowance for Regular Employment” is also available apart from the allowances introduced above. Contact the Hello Work office for requisites and details.

Those who were re-employed at the age of 60 or above

Continuous employment benefit for the elderly will be provided to those aged between 60 and under 65 (※) insured by the employment insurance, who meet certain requirements. ※For a seaman, criteria for eligibility could change to age between 55 and under 60 depending on the person's date of birth.

There are two types of benefits: the Continuous employment benefits for the elderly [kounenrei koyou keizoku kihon kyufukin] and Re-employment benefits for the elderly [kounenrei saishushoku kyufukin] .

Continuous employment benefits for the elderly [kounenrei koyou keizoku kihon kyufukin] is a benefit for those who are re-employed without receiving the basic allowance of the employment insurance etc, (such as re-employment benefits etc.) It is provided to those whose monthly wage payment after turning 60 years old was 75% or less than that received upon age 60 (with an upper limit of 15% of the wage paid each month based on the rate of decrease in the wage).

Re-employment benefits for the elderly [kounenrei saishushoku kyufukin] is a benefit for those who are aged between 60 and under 65 receiving basic allowance of the employment insurance after job separation and those who are re-employed (with an employment contract of 1 year or more) leaving 100 days or more of the unpaid benefit period. This benefit is provided (with an upper limit of 15% of the wage paid each month based on the rate of decrease in the wage) only when monthly wage of such re-employment is less than 75% of the 30 day-amount of the daily wage prior to re-employment. However, one cannot receive this allowance together with the re-employment allowance at the same time (see ⑮ above).
